Faculty Position
Duke University
Sanford School of Public Policy

The Sanford School of Public Policy at Duke University seeks an outstanding scholar at any level who has research and teaching interests in social policy related to families and children, for a tenure-stream faculty position beginning in the fall of 2012.

The successful candidate will have the opportunity to play a leadership role in the Duke Center for Child and Family Policy. We seek a scholar who has a strong record of funded research and whose interests enhance the Center’s programs in one or more of these areas: education policy, program evaluation, adolescent problem behavior, substance use, early childhood policy, poverty, and child abuse. The Sanford School values the perspectives of multiple disciplines and the application of rigorous, state-of-the-art methods, whether quantitative, qualitative, or mixed. Discipline is open. The candidate will be expected to teach in the Sanford School’s core and to mentor students in the School's undergraduate, Master's, and doctoral programs. The School and Center are described at www.sanford.duke.edu and www.childandfamilypolicy.duke.edu.

All candidates should send a letter of application, a CV, and several papers to Professor Kenneth Dodge, Social Policy Search Committee Chair, via the following website: http://www.facsearch.sanford.duke.edu. Applications received by September 1, 2011, will be guaranteed consideration. Duke University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.
